Crossing Boundaries

Southwestern College/Rotary Leadership Camp

May 26 - May 30, 2012

Leadership in Action

Some people may define a leader as one who mediates and is in charge of a group or activity. However, a true leader is a servant first. A servant leader uses their skill set to serve others through taking risks, collaborating, and inspiring those around them to take the initiative.

This year's SC/Rotary Leadership Camp theme, Crossing Boundaries, explores how to move beyond personal limitations and expectations to become an adept servant leader. Through the camp you will learn about yourself and others, about motivation and teamwork.

The camp will be May 26–May 30, 2012, on the Southwestern College campus. Call us at Southwestern College, or check with a local Rotary Club member, to find out how you can cross your personal boundaries with Leadership Southwestern.

“The roots of true achievement lie in the will to become the best that you can become.” —Harold Taylor

What will we do?

The week will be filled with both physical and mental leadership-building and motivational activities.

- You'll work with other students in projects that will give you experience in teamwork, from a ropes course to a service project.
- You'll talk about setting goals.
- You'll set goals to help make a difference in your school.
- And we'll make sure you have plenty of fun.
